- Two MCC Pourakarmikas selected to interact with the Prime Minister

Pourakarmika Manjula, who has been selected to interact with Prime Minister Narendra Modi tomorrow, is seen rehearsing for the virtual event to be beamed at Mysore Palace. Today's mock drill was supervised by officials from Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs and Mysuru City Corporation.

New Delhi/Mysuru, Aug. 19 (RK&BCT)- Prime Minister Narendra Modi will virtually announce the results of the Fifth Edition of the Annual Cleanliness Survey 'Swachh Survekshan 2020' tomorrow at 11 am. The announcement of 2020 results was delayed owing to COVID-19 pandemic. Normally, the results are announced in March and April every year.

A total of 129 awards will be given to the top performing cities and States at the virtual 'Swachh Mahotsav' that has been organised by the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs. The Survey was completed in 28 days and 1.87 crore people across 4,242 cities, 62 cantonment boards and 92 towns along river Ganga participated in it.

Sources in the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) told Star of Mysore that Mysuru city has figured among the Top 10 Cleanest Cities and the civic body is hoping to bag the Numero Uno spot. MCC Commissioner Gurudatta Hegde said that they have got information from the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs that Mysuru is among the Top 10 Cleanest Cities.

"Our actual place will be known tomorrow. We have been striving hard to achieve the Cleanest City ranking and the credit must go to Pourakarmikas, residents of Mysuru, official machinery and the elected representatives. The concept of waste segregation must be followed diligently by all," he said.

Mysuru had won the award for the Cleanest City of India in the First and Second Edition of the Survey in 2015 and 2016 while Indore has retained the top position for three consecutive years (2017, 2018 and 2019). In 2017, the Heritage City of Mysuru bagged the fifth place, eighth place in 2018 and third place in 2019. It bagged the first place in cities that have a population of 8 to 10 lakhs in 2019.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

PRAYERS AND A BOTTLE OF LIZOL: Sometimes, as we make our way through life, circumstances throw us together with people who go on to become our dearest friends. In the doom and gloom that is the COVID-19 situation, I have found the strangest of friends — a bottle of Lizol. Make no mistake, despite the obvious roadblock to friendship of it being inanimate, we are inseparable. No sooner do I hear anyone touch the gate outside, that I run out, armed with my Lizol spray, scream to the surprised visitor not to enter the precincts of my house, shoo them away as politely as I can, and, as soon as they have turned the corner, spray Lizol liberally on all parts of the gate they might have touched. I only wait till they turn the corner because I am inherently kind (even if I do say so myself!) and I don't want to hurt their feelings by disinfecting in front of them. As I go to sleep, I look fondly at the Lizol bottle by my bedside. I sleep easier for knowing it is with me. And, when I wake, it is the first thing I set my eyes on. The situation looks bleak for the world. Most of us are hoping to get through this on a wing and a prayer. But I am a little more sanguine. I have my Lizol.

$150,000 spent on plastic surgery to look like K-Pop idol

London: Oliver Frost, aka "Oli London" has allegedly spent over $150,000 on plastic surgery over the last seven years to make himself look more like his K-pop idol.

He first laid his eyes on him in 2013 and the UK man has spent the last seven years trying to model his appearance after his idol. He was living in South Korea when he discovered BTS and like many other K-pop fans, he was "amazed by all of them". But it was Jimin who made him want to go under the knife and drastically alter his look to match that of the K-pop icon. He's been at it for over 7 years now, and he doesn't plan on stopping anytime soon.

Rainfall in Kodagu:
Misquoted facts and ill-conceived thoughts

Sir,

This is to bring to light a few facts about the rainfall in Kodagu that go to contradict certain information furnished and views expressed in the articles "August rain in Kodagu due to climate change ...." (SOM dated Aug. 6) and "Kodagu receives 272 percent more rainfall in just 7 days" (SOM dated Aug. 10).

Rainfall records of Bhagamandala are available since 1901. The National Institute of Engineering (NIE), Mysuru, may be credited with having used these records very effectively — many of our students, including a Ph.D. candidate, have analysed them for learning about the behaviour of rainfall in the region. NIE also has the distinction of using rainfall data from its own rain gauge at Talacauvery and of maintaining gauges at many remote places in Kodagu during the last one decade.

The normal (long term average) annual rainfall of the town of Bhagamandala is about 540 cm, nearly seven times that of Mysuru. This value has been exceeded by over 30% (> 720 cm) during as many as 11 times in the period 1901 to 1997 and only once since then. In fact, the annual rainfall in Bhagamandala has been over 900 cm during 1920, 24 and 61 and never even above 800 cm since 1963.

It has been claimed that, of late, "larger rainfall is happening in fewer days, leading to disasters, due to climate change." But, records have a completely different story to tell. The highest one day rainfall for 2020, according to the article in SOM dated Aug. 10 is 38.8 cm and it was 40 cm in 2019 (there is discrepancies galore in the data being circulated this year — according to KSNDMC the maximum this year is 15.3 cm and according to CWC it is 48 cm).

Interestingly, one day rainfall has been greater than 39 cm in Bhagamandala 15 times in the period 1901-97 and has been over 50 cm six times in the century. The highest 3-day maximum recorded in the 21st century is 83.7 cm (in 2007), which has been exceeded during 10 years in the 20th century. Similar or more severe is the case with other extremes. The severest rainfall that has ever been recorded in Bhagamandala pertains to 1924. The 1-day, 2-day, 3-day and 10-day extremes during the year were 84.2, 138.2, 181.7 and 377.7 cm respectively. No strange this year has seen the greatest floods ever known in the history of River Cauvery and the State of Kerala. It is claimed that rainfall has changed pattern by shifting the peaks to August from July.

But, it may be noted that the 2018 August rainfall was 157 cm, which has been exceeded six times in the 20th century. For information, the August rain in 1931 was 330 cm, more than twice that of 2018 and of 2019.

The statistics above establish that some of the observations in the said articles are misquoted facts and that the claims by Prof. T.V. Ramachandra (as reported) of IISc. regarding the effects of climate change are grossly ill-conceived thoughts.

COVID-19 restrictions dampen spirits of traditional idol-makers

Ganesha-Gowri idol-maker Venkatamma.

Idol-maker Manjunath.

Mysuru, Aug. 19 (PM&SD)- Following the State Government's guidelines restricting the Ganesha Chaturthi Festival celebrations in order to check the spread of COVID-19 pandemic, one of the most affected people are traditional Gowri-Ganesha idol-makers in the region.

In Kumbarageri alone, which is located near Gandhi Chowk in city, there are over 20 families, who have been depending on this profession for their livelihood.

Other than householders who celebrate the festival with much gaiety every year, hundreds of community or 'Sarvajanik' Ganesha idols are installed at mantaps and pandals in numerous localities across the city.

People, especially youth, come together and form their own small communities to venerate Ganesha by setting up special colourful pandals or stalls at almost every lanes and by-lanes across the city where intricately carved Ganesha idols are installed.

Daily prayers and prasadam are offered for three to seven days. At the culmination of the festival, Ganesha idols are taken through the streets in a procession to immerse in the nearby lakes or rivers.

Due to restrictions imposed by the Government this year, fortune seems to be not smiling on more than 60 to 80 small and big potters in the city.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, a traditional potter whose family has been involved in idol making from many generations said, "Idol making is a tedious process which begins six months before the festival. This year, none of us are certain about the number of idols we are going to sell. This is going to be financially devastating for us because nearly 60 to 80 families in Mysuru city and over 150 families in the district are earning their livelihood with this."

Venkatamma, another Ganesha idol maker residing in Kumbarageri, said: "The Government has provided financial aid to all but left out potters. Last year, we could sell over 3,000 Ganesha idols, but this year, we have prepared only 1,000 idols. Almost all of them are smaller ones. From the past 25 years, I have been dependent on this profession to earn my daily bread. They would have allowed to install idols in public places for at least three days. Only potters have been left out of special Coronavirus relief package. We would request authorities to come to our aid and provide some amount as relief package for all Ganesha idol makers."

After Varamahalakshmi, now Gowri-Ganesha festival rush...

Makeshift Flower Market at J.K. Grounds

Mysuru, Aug. 19 (MTY&DM)- J.K. Grounds in the heart of the city and located very close to the City Railway Station, was a bee-hive of activity this morning as people from all parts of the city thronged the venue for purchase of flowers and other puja articles for the Gowri-Ganesha festival later this week.

In view of the spread of the deadly COVID-19 pandemic, the MCC had ordered temporary shifting of Devaraja Flower Market to the spacious J.K. Grounds as a crowd control measure ahead of Gowri-Ganesha festival, for four days from today till Aug.22. Accordingly, more than 140 flower vendors, both wholesale and retail, had begun shifting to J.K. Grounds since yesterday morning itself. The vendors, anticipating rains during the four-day period, have erected large water-proof tents having a span of 15'x15', under which 4 to 6 vendors have set up stalls, sharing between them the rent and cost of erection. While setting up the stalls, the vendors have ensured maintenance of physical distancing among themselves as directed by the authorities.

This morning, lorry loads of flowers from various parts of Tamil Nadu, Bengaluru, Hoskote and other places arrived at J.K. Grounds, with vendors anticipating good business as most people celebrate the festival using a variety of flowers. On the first day, Arabian Common Jasmine (Mallige) flower sold at Rs.300 per kg, Jasmine (Marle) at Rs.300 per kg, Tuber Rose (Sugandha Raja) at Rs.120 a kilo, Crossandra (Kanakambara) at Rs.1,200 a kilo, Star Jasmine (Kakada) at Rs.340 a kilo, Marigold (Chendu Hoovu) at Rs.50 a kg, Oleander (Ganagale Hoovu) at Rs.50 a metre, Chrysantheum (Sevanthige) at Rs.60 to Rs.100 a metre, Nerabul (Hybrid Tea Rose) at Rs.200 per kilo and Lotus at Rs.15 a piece.

Apart from flower vendors, there were vendors selling a variety of puja articles including Kumkum, Incense sticks, Camphor et al. Besides, a number of push cart vendors were seen selling fruits that are used most during the festival.

With people from all parts of the city and neighbourhood visiting the Flower Market at the new venue, the Police were on their toes, making repeated announcements on following COVID-19 measures, asking the public to compulsorily wear face masks and maintain physical distancing. The authorities had made adequate vehicle parking arrangements at the venue, with separate gates for entry and exit. The jurisdictional Devaraja Traffic Police were seen guiding motorists on parking of their vehicles, in order to ensure organised parking of two-wheelers and four-wheelers.

It may be recalled that this is the second time in the year that the Devaraja Flower Market has temporarily shifted to J.K. Grounds as a crowd control measure in the wake of COVID-19, with the first time being from July 29 to 31 on account of Varamahalakshmi festival.

KSRTC extends city bus facility to J.K. Grounds

With the Devaraja Flower Market getting temporarily shifted to J.K. Grounds, KSRTC has extended its city bus services to the venue from several areas for the benefit of the public. All city buses coming to the City Bus Stand from Kuvempunagar, BEML Nagar, Dattagalli and Bogadi side, have been directed to ply through J.K. Grounds on all the four days (Aug.19 to 22), according to KSRTC Mysuru City Divisional Controller Nagaraj.

Boundary survey for Mysuru-Madikeri Expressway begins

Mysuru, Aug. 19 (RK&BCT)- The National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) has begun boundary marking exercise and land acquisition survey for the four/ six-lane Mysuru-Madikeri Economic Corridor Expressway Project along the Mysuru-Madikeri NH-275.

The 115 km-long Expressway costing Rs.6,000 crore is a fully Centrally-funded Project including land acquisition. The new Highway is being built to connect Mysuru and Madikeri. Once completed, the Expressway will not touch Mysuru and will link the Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway that is being expanded to 10-lane Highway.

The Expressway will connect Madikeri with Bengaluru bypassing Suntikoppa, Kushalnagar, Bylakuppe, Koppa, Kampalapura, Periyapatna, Kallbeta, Gonikoppal Deviation Road, Hunsur and Mysuru.

The Expressway will touch the Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway at Paschimavahini near Srirangapatna.

The first stage of the survey has been completed till Basavanahalli on the Srirangapatna-Bylakuppe-Madikeri Road. Now, the NHAI and Revenue Department officers have been marking boundaries and planting stone benchmarks near Teppadagandi in Kodagu district till the Highway stretch of Basavanahalli.

According to NHAI officials, a new bridge will be built across River Cauvery near Teppadagandi Hanging Bridge. The road will have four/ six lanes as per the specifications mentioned in the NHAI website. A giant circle will come up at Teppadagandi and will cross the Konanur-Thalassery State Highway to link Aanekaadu via Basavanahalli.

Officials said that after the boundaries are marked, the initial works will begin. Notices will be issued to the land owners and their objections will be recorded. The compensation has been fixed and the process of identifying the land owners who are eligible for compensation was on. This survey process is being conducted along with the Revenue Department.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Special Land Acquisition Officer Devaraj said that the first phase of the joint survey work of 42 kilometres of the Expressway has been completed. "We are taking along the Revenue officials as they will have extensive knowledge of the land and its owners as per revenue records. We are aiming to complete the entire survey — including bridges and bypass roads — by the end of December and submit the report to the Government. Once the compensation is disbursed, the road construction works will take one-and-a-half to two years to complete," he said.

The Expressway has a design length of 93 kilometres and bypasses have been proposed having an aggregate length of 84 kilometres at Kushalnagar, Periyapatna, and combined bypass for Hunsur, Bilikere and Mysuru. It will have a road median and the alignment for the new corridor has already been done. It will considerably reduce the journey time between Madikeri and Bengaluru and also connects several cities in North Kerala.

The existing four-lane road between Mysuru and Madikeri (NH-275) has reached a saturation point and there is an urgent need to build a separate road. Travelling on the existing Highway is a nightmarish experience especially during weekends and holidays when thousands of vehicles move between Mysuru and Madikeri. Once completed, the Expressway will reduce the journey time between Madikeri and Bengaluru to five hours from existing seven hours.

Cleanest City: Special screening at Palace tomorrow

A special screening of the virtual award ceremony has been arranged at Mysore Palace tomorrow at 11 am where MP Pratap Simha, city MLAs, Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar, Mayor Tasneem, MCC Commissioner Gurudatta Hegde and other officials will be present.

At the Palace, two flex boards with the text "Swachh Mahotsav — Celebrating Urban Swachhatha Champions' have been installed and two giant LED screens have been set up for the virtual event. While one screen has been set up near the venue of the annual Dasara cultural programmes, the other screen has been set up inside the Palace structure in case it rains. A small stage will be set up and arrangements will be made to seat over 50 persons.

Interaction with Pourakarmikas

As part of the programme, the PM will launch the Swachh Survekshan 2020 results dashboard. He will also interact with select beneficiaries, swachhagrahis and safai karmis (sanitary workers or Pourakarmikas) under the Swachh Bharat Mission - Urban Programme, from different parts of the country.

From Mysuru, Pourakarmikas Nanjundaswamy and Manjula have been selected to interact with the PM through a virtual platform against the backdrop of Mysore Palace. They are the only two Pourakarmikas who have been chosen among Pourakarmika fraternity from South India.

Hindi advantage

MCC sources said that in all, 10 Pourakarmikas were shortlisted to interact with PM Modi and finally, Nanjundaswamy and Manjula were selected as they had good knowledge of Hindi. MCC officials said that both Nanjundaswamy and Manjula have good knowledge and experience of keeping Mysuru clean and as they can interact effortlessly in Hindi they will be in a better position to interact with the PM.

Nanjundaswamy got the Pourakarmika job under compassionate grounds after his mother Nagamma, also a Pourakarmika, died in 2009 while in service. He told SOM that he was excited to interact with Modi and the event will be a morale-booster for the entire Pourakarmika community who are performing the role of COVID Warriors.

Manjula has been in the field for 22 years and at present, she works as a Pourakarmika at Lashkar Mohalla Ward. Her family has four Pourakarmikas with her three sons also involved in the work with MCC.

Mock drill

This morning, a mock drill of the virtual event was conducted at the Palace premises and was supervised by officials from Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs. Two officers exclusively from the Ministry have been deputed to Mysuru to supervise the arrangements and the officers interacted with the Ministry officials in New Delhi through the virtual platform.

MCC Additional Commissioner N.M. Shashikumar, MCC Health Officers Dr. D.G. Nagaraju and Jayanth are coordinating with the Ministry officials.

No giant Ganeshas this year

Mysuru, Aug. 19 (MTY& BNR)- Every year by now, the main thoroughfares of Mysuru city would have colourful and huge idols of Ganesha and Gowri, some with even varied themes. But this season, the scene is different with COVID-19 taking the sheen off the celebrations.

Areas including K.T. Street, Ramakrishnanagar, Agrahara Circle, near 101 Ganapathi Temple, Paduvarahalli, Saraswathipuram, Kuvempunagar, near Bandanthamma Temple and Irwin Road, which once showcased magnificent idols for the festive season, now display only a minimum collection of idols.

Even the size has been reduced to almost half of the previous years that too with only small idols making way to market as the authorities have laid down strict guidelines for the celebrations [See page-4] in view of the pandemic.

Idol-makers say, as there were little hopes of permission for public installation of Ganesha idols amidst the pandemic, they have not readied any big idols and only idols from 1 to 3 ft in height are in the market.

It may be mentioned here that initially, the guidelines for Ganesha festivities banned public installations. However, the revised guidelines issued only on Aug.17, allowed public installation of idols with restrictions on size and gathering.

Now, idol-makers hope that youth organisations/ associations, who used to install Ganesha idols all these years, would come forward to place order for bigger idols (not exceeding 4 ft, according to the guidelines).

As of now, the little Ganeshas are ruling the market and yet are waiting for devotees. Idol-makers hope to make some business from tomorrow as today being Amavasya, not many would consider buying Ganesha-Gowri idols and business remains bleak.

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka speaks about hyperventilating and intussusception in dogs

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

Why does my dog sleep so much?

Since dogs do not go to school or work, it is common for them to be bored all day and thereby sleep out of that boredom. But if they sleep all day long, then there's a problem with your dog's health. There are chances that he may be suffering from hypothyroidism, back pain, diabetes, anxiety or many other serious ailments. Getting a thorough veterinary investigation, which may include blood work and other tests, is the only way to know for sure.

Do older dogs go through menopause?

Unlike humans, dogs do not go through menopause, as canines do not have a monthly cycle. Rather, they go into estrus (also known as heat) every six months or so. The regularity of their reproductive cycle depends on the age, breed, and individual dog.

As a dog ages, the twice annual estrus cycles may become irregular, but she is still fertile. Pregnancy is still a possibility, but with greater risk in an older dog.

I think my dog is hyperventilating, but I am not sure. What are the symptoms of hyperventilation? How can I prevent it? Also, how it can be treated?

Hyperventilation is fast breathing. It means that there isn't enough oxygen in the body to go around and a dog will struggle to breathe. Depending on the reason for the hyperventilation, signs of it may vary from dog to dog.

Basic signs are: Rapid breathing, panting or open mouth breathing, short breath, blue or pale pink mucous membranes, unable to take a normal deep breath, weakness, collapse, drooling with open mouth breathing.

Treatment: Depending on the root cause of the hyperventilation, the exact treatment plan may vary. Cooling the body temperature down or providing sedatives, bronchodialators, steroids, antihistamines and other medications may be the initial treatment to stabilise a patient that is hyperventilating. Sometimes supplemental oxygen is even needed. Once the dog is stable, other treatments may ensue. Surgery is occasionally needed to correct the underlying reason for the hyperventilation, especially if it involves an obstructed airway, but usually medications are utilised to manage the reason for the increased respiratory rate; Prevention: Some cases of hyperventilation can be easily prevented while others cannot. Making sure a dog does not develop heat stroke by keeping it out of extreme heat, monitoring pain, stress, and anxiety levels, and getting regular physical examinations done by a veterinarian can help prevent the likelihood of a dog hyperventilating.

My dog is 16 years old and he won't eat, not even his soft food and he's starving himself to death slowly. What can I do to help him?

Try smelly, warm food. I use a very thick homemade stock. It must be homemade without onions. It's not hard to make. If this also doesn't work, then take your dog to the vet and get it checked. If reports show no such physical problems, then the only advice left is to let your animal decide.

I have a year-old male lab. He doesn't eat to his capacity. Is it ok to feed your dog once a day?

No. A dog must be fed a minimum of twice a day — once in the morning and once in the evening — though puppies under five months of age should be fed three to four times a day.

How can I know or what are the symptoms that will help me to know that my dog is suffering from intussusception?

It is a problem that affects the intestines of dogs. In this, the movement in the intestines either speed up or slow down, and even stop.

Symptoms are: Diarrhoea, vomiting, decreased appetite, bloody stool, hunched back, crying. Promoting a healthy intestinal tract may help. Regular use of intestinal parasite prevention, gradual dietary changes, and ensuring your dog doesn't eat things it shouldn't eat, can help decrease the chances of this occurring.

Does a dog view an abusive owner differently from a kind one?

A dog views an abusive owner the way a young child views an abusive parent; in the same way, a dog views a kind owner the way a young child views a kind parent. Their owner is their pack leader and they do not compare the abuser to another (real or ideal) owner, but you can tell by their body language and habits that they are fearful, submissive and depressed. A dog who rejoices in his owner has a bounce in his gait and is eager to engage with him.

What are the signs of anxiety in dogs?

Aggression. Urinating or defecating in the house. Drooling. Panting. Destructive behaviour. Depression. Excessive barking. Pacing.

Signs of congestive heart failure in dogs?

Excessive tiredness or sleepiness. A frequent cough. Lack of appetite. Fainting spells. Difficulty in sleeping, especially for dogs who sleep on their sides. Lethargy or reduced exercise or inability to exercise at all. Fluid in the abdomen or a swollen stomach.

How do you check a dog's vision?

Hold your hand, palm out toward your dog about 18 inches away from his/ her face. Move your hand swiftly forward until it is about 3 inches from your dog's face. Your dog should blink. If there is no reaction, test each eye individually and call your veterinarian.

Do dogs bleed after mating?

Yes, most of them still bleed after mating. But after 9-10 days, the bleeding will become more watery, or stop.

Is it OK to vaccinate a pregnant or nursing pet?

The first half of the pregnancy is the most vulnerable time for foetal development. Vaccines that are modified live (versus killed) are generally not considered safe at any time of the pregnancy. Killed vaccines, such rabies vaccines, may be given during pregnancy (especially during the latter half of gestation) but are not recommended. There may be situations where vaccination may be advised to protect the mother's health. But on the whole, no.

My dog goes crazy the moment a banana is peeled. Is it alright if I give a little banana with his food?

Yes, bananas are safe for dogs. They are a good source of potassium, manganese, vitamin B6, vitamin C, fibre, biotin and copper. Bananas are low in sodium and cholesterol but, due to the sugar content in bananas, dogs should only eat them as a treat, and not as a regular part of their diets. Bananas fed in excess can lead to constipation. From practical experience, some dogs love bananas and some hate bananas. As long as bananas are just a snack, not the whole meal, and the dog isn't allergic to the banana, then there's no reason not to feed them.

My dog swallowed a chewing gum. Should I be concerned? Or will he pass it out with his stool?

Depending on the type of gum he finds; your dog can become very ill after eating some. Any chewing gum can be a choking hazard, but sugar-free chewing gums containing xylitol — a sugar-alcohol — which can cause hypoglycaemia or liver damage.

Hypoglycaemia, or decreased blood sugar, can occur when your dog eats more than 70 milligrams of xylitol per kg of body weight. Liver damage occurs if your dog eats more than 500 milligrams per kg. That may make it seem like Fido would need to eat a lot, but a stick of sugar-free gum can have up to 0.4 gram of xylitol in it. If Fido is a small dog, less than two sticks of gum could trigger hypoglycaemia. If your dog eats enough gum, you may notice signs of hypoglycaemia develop quickly. A dog's body, unlike other mammals,' produces insulin in the presence of xylitol. You may notice your dog stumbling, falling over, having seizures, or go into a coma. Immediate treatment is necessary to prevent further complications.

Scientists haven't been able to determine why liver damage occurs. It can take more than 12 hours to notice signs of liver failure, including yellow or icteric gums, or depression. Your veterinarian can run blood tests to evaluate your dog's liver enzyme values, which may indicate dysfunction. Decreased platelets and elevated phosphorus levels may be found in testing. Not every dog that develops low blood sugar will develop liver damage, and not every dog with liver damage previously showed signs of hypoglycaemia.

Demand for International Airport for Mysuru: Some basic issues

By R. Chandra Prakash

Chandra Prakash

There is a demand for an International Airport for Mysuru from business leaders and also a few people's representatives. Tentatively its location is proposed near K. Shettihalli, beyond Srirangapatna on the Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway. While justifying their demand, availability of 900 acres of Government land and the future growth of the business and industry in Mysuru are indicated. However, an issue like an International Airport needs more serious grounds than what are stated in their demand.

Kempegowda International Airport: A missed opportunity

Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) in Bengaluru has today become country's second busiest airports. It has earned high accolades for its technological advances and user-friendly infrastructure and services.

However, its location at Devanahalli, a far away corner of Bengaluru, practically bordering Andhra Pradesh, has always defied logic. An ideal location would have been somewhere within the triangle of Hassan-Mysuru-Bengaluru. This would have provided equidistant proximity to three populous cities, and also to Kodagu. This location would have been most cost-effective to the travellers from these cities. Today even for Bengalureans, who were enjoying the earlier closer location at HAL, Devanahalli is a distant place. It is this distant location of KIA which has now prompted a demand for a separate International Airport for Mysuru.

Scientific grounds needed

An International Airport needs huge investments. Obviously, neither the Union Government nor the State Government will be in a position to generate that amount of investments. And this means, like in the case of KIA, it could only be a Public-Private Partnership model. For this to fructify, one has to substantiate the short-term and long-term cost benefit of a given location. Availability of land is only one of the variables.

A jinxed airport at Mandakalli

The development of Mysore Airport at Mandakalli is yet another example of short-sightedness of the authorities. It did not generate adequate traffic for a long time. Several private airlines withdrew their services for want of adequate traffic. Due to limited services, both in terms of number and places, people did not patronage it. But once UDAN scheme created necessary traffic, things have picked up and even the private airlines are now showing interest.

The basic problem of the Mysore Airport at Mandakalli was the limited size of the runway, which was mainly due to short-term goals and investments. Land prices soared once the decision was made to expand the runway. Proximity of a Highway to the airport posed yet another problem. Over a period of time, this airport was fully surrounded by residential layouts which once again became a safety issue. Therefore, runway expansion did not take place and bigger planes cannot land and services to distant places cannot be provided. It is a jinxed airport as of now.

For the very reason which failed this airport to function as an efficient inter-city service provider, will also plague the possibility of its being converted into an International Airport. This means that a new location has to be identified for proposed International Airport.

An ideal location

The present distance between Hassan and KIA is about 238 kms, between Mysuru and KIA is about 188 kms and between Madikeri (Kodagu) and KIA is more than 250 kms. And it is not merely the distance, but the time taken and uncertainty of safe traffic to reach KIA which are bigger issues.

Therefore, an ideal location for the proposed International Airport should be somewhere between the three cities of Mysuru-Hassan-Madikeri. Depending upon the availability of adequate land and its costs, a location between Ramanathapura and Kikkeri belt should be an ideal choice. This area is within 60-70 kms from all the three cities. And the total population of these three cities and more so three districts of Mysuru, Mandya and Hassan will generate adequate traffic, both national and international.

Keeping in mind the expansion of international and inter-State air traffic, KIA is going to reach its optimal level within next ten years. And that should be the time that a new International Airport comes up to catering to the needs of ever-increasing air traffic. We cannot forget that new International Airport at Kannur, Kerala, is nearer to Mysuru and Kodagu than KIA is today. Kannur will surely obstruct any proposal that we may make. If we do not address this issue properly today we will miss a great opportunity and remain with only KIAs — Kempegowda International Airport and Kannur International Airport. And, of course, remain with a jinxed Mandakalli Airport.

Can BCCI call IPL 13th edition "Coronavirus Benevolent IPL"?

Not only does the ball go in mystifying direction in IPL (Indian Premier League) but also the venues and countries. What seemed to be an improbable proposition under the current scheme of things, has finally carved a window between September 19 and November 8 at the shores of UAE.

The World T20 Championship, which was slated to take off in Australia between October 18 and November 15 2020 has conveniently paved way for the 13th edition of IPL owing to the current COVID-19 pandemic. Is IPL a perfect substitute for T20 World Cup? Not many would agree.

Even in the past when dates of second edition of IPL in 2009 entangled with general elections in India the entire tournament had to be shifted to South Africa, which eventually proved to be a roaring success. Again in 2014 the first leg of IPL had to be hosted in UAE again for the same reason, the general elections. But hosting the 13th edition in UAE poses severe logistical challenges.

However, UAE, whose economy is in doldrums was more than happy to welcome the Rs.475 billion brand to its country again, which expects hefty revenue. Certainly an oasis in the desert !

Sri Lanka and Bangladesh players are not available to play in IPL due to the test series in October. Even 10 players from South Africa including AB de Villiers may miss out from the action as South Africa is following a strict lockdown putting a curb on overseas travel.

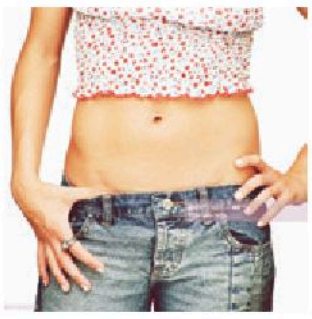
In India or abroad, with South African players or without, with perverse crowds or without and with Coronavirus or without, IPL will happen even if it has to be played at the Maidan. So potent is the force of IPL.

Sharjah Cricket Stadium, one of the venues for the 13th edition of IPL, was built by Abdul Rahman Qadir, a businessman, who acquired a taste for the game. To attract the throngs to his new Stadium, he utilised the rivalry between India and Pakistan teams and therefore set persuading the two countries to play in Sharjah, sweetening the pot with generous efforts to make retired India and Pakistan cricketers the beneficiaries of the proceeds under the arrangement he called the "Cricketers' Benevolent Fund Series." Now Sharjah Cricket Stadium holds the world record for most One Day International (ODI) hosted in a venue with 236 ODIs up to February 2018.

Will BCCI take a leaf out of this? Can BCCI, which became the world's richest cricket body largely from the proceeds of IPL, call this 13th edition the "Coronavirus Benevolent IPL" and devote the entire proceeds to the Indian Government to fight the war against Coronavirus ? —D. Vijeth

WORD OF THE DAY

Midriff



Pronunciation: MID-riff.
Meaning: The mid-region of the human torso : midsection; a section of a garment that covers the midriff; the partition separating the chest and abdominal cavities in mammals : diaphragm.
Origin: Midriff is now most commonly encountered in the mid-torso or clothing-related senses. These senses are relatively young, having appeared, respectively, in the early 19th and mid-20th centuries. For most of its history, however, midriff has been used to refer to the diaphragm (a large flat muscle separating the lungs from the stomach area). The diaphragm sense has been with us for more than 1,000 years, with the earliest known uses being found in Old English manuscripts such as Bald's Leechbook, a medical text that is believed to date back to the 9th century. The riff in midriff comes from Old English hrif ("belly, womb"). Hrif is akin to Old High German href ("womb") and probably also to Latin corpus ("body").
Example: Even the store's winter line of clothing includes a number of midriff-baring tops, albeit paired with oversized cardigans or flannel shirts.

THE ODD WORD

Machair

Low-lying sandy beach.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Making a Scene

Meaning: Behaving in such a way that it disturbs the public; drawing undue attention to oneself by being dramatic.
Origin: This phrase possibly has a background in theatre, where comedic, dramatic, and other sorts of scenes are performed on a stage. Such performances draw the attention of the audience to the stage. Thus, if someone is being dramatic and drawing unnecessary attention to themselves, it might be said that they are 'making a scene,' it's as if they are an actor on stage during a theatrical performance.
The Facts on File Encyclopedia of Word and Phrase Origins mentions that Samuel Foote, a British playwright, wrote a play in the 1760s called The Liar. One of the characters from the play says: "We parted this moment. Such a scene!" The expression with its modern phrasing is found in a book from 1825, where it reads: "When the company reached the dining-room, each placed himself at table where he chose, and the master and mistress of the house easily found means, without making a scene, to induce the four most distinguished women in company to sit by them."

QUOTE BOX

The battlefield is a scene of constant chaos. The winner will be the one who controls that chaos, both his own and the enemies. —Napoleon Bonaparte
